Coralie began working with the Saskatchewan Society of Occupational Therapists as their Executive Director in 2005.

CORALIE LENNEA

Healing Through Humour

Healing Through Humour is a program designed to teach people living with mental or physical disabilities to perform standup comedy as a way to break down barriers of discrimination and build self-esteem through public performance. The students participate in an eight week instructional course on joke writing and performing taught by comedian Ian Morrison. At the end of the eight weeks, the group puts on a public performance of their newly acquired standup comedy routines.
